Mitochondria release energy for the cell through cellular respiration.

The nucleus stores the genetic material of the cell and controls its activities.

Photosynthesis occurs in the chloroplasts of plant cells and converts light into chemical energy.

Ribosomes build proteins by following instructions copied from the genetic material.

Osmosis is the movement of water across a semipermeable membrane toward higher solute concentration.